Particle-Mesh Method for Waterflooding Problem with Multiple Injection/Production Wells

M.R. Razvan
Institute for Advanced
Studies in Basic Sciences Zanjan
Iran

The particle-mesh method is known as a powerful computational method for hyperbolic conservation laws. We have used this method combined with the operator-splitting technique for solving the convection-dominated diffusion process generated by a two phase incompressible flow in a heterogeneous petroleum reservoir with multiple injection/production wells.